

ACT 354

Schools, libraries, and open space are essential elements of a residential community and should exist in harmony with the surrounding community. Where resources are readily available to accommodate public facilities, it is in the best interest of all citizens to promote cooperative and shared resources among various public agencies.

The department of education and the University of Hawaii shall develop a cooperative agreement on the eventual construction of a new Manoa district library not to exceed 23,000 square feet in area, and to be located on the property of the University of Hawaii currently used as a parking lot and the present library site, subject to the condition that no existing University of Hawaii buildings shall be displaced or relocated as a result of this plan. The plan shall provide for adequate parking for the University of Hawaii.

SECTION 3. The chairperson of the board of education, the president of the University of Hawaii, and the chairperson of the University of Hawaii board of regents shall submit a report to the Legislature on the status of the cooperative planning effort no later than 20 days prior to the convening of the Regular Session of 1994.

ACT 354

H.B. NO. 2098

A Bill for an Act Relating to Hawaiian Sovereignty.

Be It Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Hawaii:

SECTION 1. On January 16, 1893, John L. Stevens, American minister in Hawaii and friend of those supporting the annexation of Hawaii to the United States, ordered the United States marines to invade Honolulu under the pretext of protecting American citizens and their property. Stevens thereafter recognized a new provisional government even before Queen Liliuokalani surrendered. The actions by the annexationists were condemned by President Cleveland's special envoy and the President himself. When President Cleveland refused to submit a treaty of annexation to the Senate, the new provisional government established the Republic of Hawaii which lasted until annexation in 1898. Sixty-one years later, Hawaii became a state.
